

Dear friends and family,

I am incredibly excited to tell you that I will be this upcoming summer in the Angk'jeay Village of Cambodia with Mission to the World! Angk'jeay is a small village in which a church has been planted in the last few years by missionaries Luke and Sokha Smith.

What is my role going to be? Good question. Much of Luke and Sokha's ministry in the village is to the youth; this is done through classes and programs that teach English, guitar, and computer among many other things. These classes are used to both educate the youth and to build relationships to show them Christ. Consequentially, the bulk of my work in Cambodia will be in assisting with these programs. For example, Sokha teaches all of the guitar classes for the village, but she is due to have a child this summer. Since she will be unable to teach them for a couple of months, I will be able to fill that role in the meantime. Furthermore, Mission to the World has an educational program that allows Cambodian students to spend a year being discipled and trained, then pays for the tuition of their college education. Some of these students lack fundamental computer skills with which I will be able to assist them in my time in Angk'jeay. And those are just a few of the things that my work will entail in the village.

In order for me to work with the Cambodia team, however; I am in need of support in both prayer and resources. This trip is going to cost roughly $6,000 to cover travel, living expenses, and ministry costs in Cambodia. Furthermore, I am in need of prayer. How can you be praying?

- For the church in Cambodia to continue to thrive and grow; specifically that Cambodians would know the joy of glorifying God in Christ Jesus.
- That God would help me to be loving, diligent, and humble in my work in Angk'jeay.
- That God would provide everything that I need for this trip, both spiritually and financially.

Also, if you are able also to support me financially, you may give online at <https://donations.mtw.org> or by sending a check with my ministry account number (16710), and the attached pledge card to MTW's secure, donations-only post office box at: Mission to the World Donations, P.O.
